Mayor Glasmann pointed out that the report this year shows an overdraft of $138,676.35, which is $15,000 greater than the overdraft of last year. The mayor declared that the new license ordinance had brought much revenue into the city and that had it revenue into the city and that had it not been for the license revenue the not been for the license revenue the overdraft would have reached a total of $25,000 greater than last year.

Mayor Glasmann recommended that an ordinance be passed creating some kind of a signal whereby the citizens could be notified when fires broke out so that they can turn off their running water, such as garden hose and the like, in order to supply a better force to fight the fire. The recommendation was accepted and an ordinance to that was accepted and an ordinance to that

HUSBAND UNABLE TO SUPPORT WIFE

(Special to The Herald-Republican.) (Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Aug. 22.—Holding her grounds for divorce to be utterly unfounded, Judge J. A. Howell today denied a decree of separation to Mrs. Emma Harper, who is suing J. Harper on grounds of failure to provide.
On the stand today Mrs. Harper admitted that her husband was incapacitated by ill health from supporting her and had been so for a year.
The judge held this to be insufficient, whereupon the woman pleaded temperamental differences, claiming her husband to be nearly twice as old as herself.

In passing on the matter, Judge Howell declared that final disposition would not be made until she had been allowed to present further evidence.

EXPLOSION BURNS OGDEN FREIGHT DEPOT

(Special to The Herald-Republican.) Ogden, Aug. 22.—Through the mysterious explosion of a gasoline stove in the rear room of the former depot building of the Salt Lake & Ogden rail-road, at Thirtieth street and Washing-ton avenue, this morning, that structure burned to the ground with a loss of about $1,000. Yardmaster E. G. Ends-maker had just completed his break-fast which he cooked over the stove and turned out the gas when the ex-plosion occurred. (Special to The Herald-Republican.) Ogden, Aug. 22.—His head cut com-pletely from his body, the body of J. Leahy of Battle Mountain, Nev., was discovered under a freight train at that place yesterday morning by Con-ductor W. J. May. Leahy had been seen attempting to crawl under the moving train several moments before. He was intoxleated, it is said, and rather than wait for the long train to pass, went under it. Low-hanging brakebeams caught him, mangling his body in a frightful manner, and throwing it in such a position that the wheels sev-ered the head. A coroner's jury brought in a verdict of accidental death, relieving the train crew of all blame.

By far the most important legal outcome of the complicated case is unwrit of certiorari issued by the supreme court late Saturday night, taking the case out of Judge Howell's hands for reviewal before the supreme court September 1. The higher court held that the district court had exceeded its jur-isdiction, and ordered that all proceed-ings in the case be stopped immediately and all records and court transactions in regard to it, be turned over to the supreme court.

Have You Ever Said "I don't see how all the Magazines live?"--

Undoubtedly you have. You have probably stood aghast before some newsstand and wondered what magazines to buy. There are a lot of magazines. Most of them are mighty good and most of them live because they are good.

But there's one magazine that not only lives but GROWS. There are fifteen or more good reasons for this in every issue. These reasons are its "unbeatable" features—the special articles obtained at enormous cost—the best fiction in the world-and its powerful, sincere editorial purpose. It grows because it is the new type of magazine, which gives news and information as well as entertainment. It fearlessly, daringly goes to the heart of the big questions that affect the business welfare or the private happiness of every American man or woman. It publishes the things live men and women want to know about, the things they ought to know, about their country, their politics, their financiers, their employers. It is the magazine that is giving to the country "Peary's Own Story," a $50,000 feature; it is the magazine that is publishing the first English translation in America of M. Rostand's world-famous drama, "Chantecler." It is "the best magazine in America" and it is called

HAMPTON'S

15 Cents September

This September number is a typical issue of Hampton's. Every feature is a big one. It is actually stuffed with big, vital news-information that you ought to have, articles that explain things, stories that every member of your family will read with intense delight. Prove it to yourself. How many of the following articles and stories in the September Hampton's would you like to read?

"The Tooth Tinkers"

Here is an article, by Roy L. McCardell, that concerns every man, woman and child in America. It tells how "Painless Parkers" everywhere are extracting good teeth—and money—from gullible persons all over this country, by promising cheap "painless" dentistry. Most persons prefer painless dentistry to the other kind. You will know now to look for the right kind after reading Mr. Cardell's amazing and true account of methods now being employed. Mention the article to your own dentist after reading it. He will be very grate-

"In Reno Riotous"

Here at last is a real, convincing story of Merton Lyon. It is filled with personality crowned with atmosphere and local color, and illustrated in the real way. Nothing has yet been published regarding this famous meeting at Reno, that furnishes such delightful reading, and draws such accurate conclusions con-cerning the result. The article will be as welcome for its literary value, as for its "profes-

"Chantecler"

"HAMPTON'S has Chantecler." This announcement has been received with intense delight throughout the United States. Ever since Rostand's immortal play appeared in France, all America has waited for Gertrude Hall's English version. "Chantecler" is the greatest romance of the world's greatest romanticist. No drama has quite such brilliant wit, such delightful slang, such a fascinating parody of human nature. To be "up to the times" is to know this charming play.

"Peary's Own Story"

No more interesting chapter in this wonderful narrative has yet appeared. In graphic language Commander Peary tells of the journey from the North Pole back to civilization. He describes the fatigue and mental agony of the trip; the tragic death of Prof. Ross Marvin; the last days of activity in the Far North, and his final return in the "ROOSEVELT." Every American should read this thrilling story of Commander Peary's triumph. Fully illus-

"The Railroad Machine"

Charles Edward Russell clearly states how and why the railroad rates of the Southern Pacific Railroad are excessive; why this is, in some degree, the case of every railroad in the country; and how the cost of living is thereby increased. Mr. Russell presents some very convincing facts and figures in this powerful

Fiction in "HAMPTON'S" for September

No other magazine publishes the variety and quality of fiction that Hampton's does. The world's greatest story-writers contribute their best. Fiction lovers can always be sure of finding their favorite writers on the Hampton's title page. For the September issue, Alice Brown has written "The House of the Bride;" Arthur Stringer gives "The Mask of Flame" as the second in his new and thrilling "Adventures of an Insomniae;" John Fleming Wilson contributes "Things as They Are;" Mary Heaton Vorse provides "Remsen the Chaperone;" and George Fitch has an irresistible motor-boat story, "Extinguishing Scorcher." An unusual number of illustrations accompany the stories.

"If you would be wealthy, think more of saving than of getting" -Benjamin Franklin

In other words, it isn't the money you make that counts, but the money you keep. Whether the money you keep. Whether or not you keep the difference between your income and your legitimate expenses, depends upon the method you employ. If you try to save money by keeping it in your pocket you are pretty certain to fail.

The only rational method of conducting your personal affairs is to adopt the plan of successful business houses. Put your money in the bank and pay your bills by check. The check stubs will help you audit your accounts and possibly prevent re-payment of a bill already paid. Besides having the money in a bank, you are reluctant to withdraw it and so frequently avoid an unit and so frequently avoid an un-necessary expense.

A bank account is the first aid to the man who would be independent. We invite the accounts of persons who desire the benefits of association with a strong bank. Their beginning may be small, but, given thrift and per-sistence, they will end with a competency.
